Election/Restrictions

Applicants newly submitted claims of 30 March 2006 necessitate the following restriction requirement. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35

U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 252 and 253, drawn to a process for selectively expressing a prokaryotic gene in a eukaryotic cell, classified in class 514, subclass 44.
- II. Claims 254, drawn to a process for selectively expressing a prokaryotic viral gene in a eukaryotic cell, classified in class 514, subclass 44. It is noted that since a virus cannot be a prokaryote, the phrase "prokaryotic viral gene" can only be reasonably interpreted as a virus that targets a prokaryotic cell, i.e. a bacteriophage. If this interpretation is not consonant with applicant's intentions, clarification is required.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I and II are directed to related processes. The related inventions are distinct if the inventions as claimed do not overlap in scope, i.e., are mutually exclusive; the inventions as claimed are not obvious variants; and the inventions as claimed are either not capable of use together or can have a materially different design, mode of operation, function, or effect. See MPEP § 806.05(j). In the instant case, the inventions do not overlap in scope, since a prokaryotic gene is different in structure and function than a viral gene that targets said a prokaryote. Furthermore, such genes are not obvious variants of one another, and differ in at least their function. Finally, since it is a burden to search and examined distinct processes which use distinct genes in a single application, restriction is considered proper therefore.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C.103(a) of the other invention.
